The Greatest (and only) Show in Area 55

Guess what? It's time to start thinking about running away and joining the Greatest Show in Area 55. The annual Variety is back and better than never (intended). Watch in stunned amazement as we shoot a perfectly sane man from a cannon into a bucket of water. Dancing pink elephants will entertain you as high above on the tight rope not one but two, yes folks two trapezes artists will simultaneously attempt, never before attempted the death-defying triple-double front-back flip without a net (Annette will be most likely be playing her guitar though). Did you know 9 out of 10 of our dancing pink elephants are Aii? (alcohol induced imagery) the tenth one just doesn't exist at all. Have you ever seen the Alligator Man spin on his tail while juggling those once famous Ginsu knives while blindfolded? We haven't either but we're hopeful he'll return our calls. Got jokes? We don't so bring yours with you. Can you sing? Please please can you sing because I can't. Think you're funny? We do too! Can you aim a spot light or hammer a nail? Preferably not in the spotlight but we know it's hard to get good help these days. How about giving props to proper prop builders? We can use them too. Been in the show before? Come on back, we'd love to see you grace our stage once more. I once saw a man wiggle his way out of a straight jacket at The Variety Show, the men in white coats never caught him either.

In all seriousness, looking to get active and have fun doing it, then this is the ticket for you. Remember, we are not a glum lot. Our mission statement is to preserve the legacy and tradition of this 50 plus running year family show whiling having fun fun fun til our daddy takes our T-Bird away...oh wait, wrong article.

We need

Stage crew, concession workers, traffic help, ticket takers, comedians, ham actors (bring wheat bread and Grey Poupon) Alligator Man (at time of print he has still has not returned our calls) A sane man willing to be shot from a cannon into a bucket of water which I was just informed that no sane man would ever do that so I guess we're now looking for a sane woman to replace him. Two trapeze artists skilled in death defying acts of breath taking amazement without a net (don't worry Annette will still be playing her guitar) and you! WE NEED YOU!!

Bring yourself, a friend and your act to our presentation day.
